GRIM WARNING TO JAPAN

"WAR WITHIN HOUR IF U.S. IS ATTACKED"

—MR. CHURCHILL

"SHOULD war come in the Pacific between Japan and America, Britain will declare war against Japan within the hour," said Mr. Churchill yesterday, during a speech that he delivered at the Lord Mayor Day luncheon in the London Mansion House.

Towards the end of his speech Mr. Churchill said that all the usual signs and symptoms were manifest in neutral countries of a peace offensive from Berlin, by which what he called "the guilty men" hoped to escape from the closing net of doom.

His answer was that the British nation, in concert with the Dominions, "will never enter into any negotiations with Hitler or any party in Germany which represents the Nazi régime."

Speaking of the great changes in Britain's position in the past twelve months, the Prime Minister referred to the growth of the Royal Air Force, which, he said, was now at least equal in size and numbers to the German air power, and to the sending back of a battle fleet to the Mediterranean, where, he added, they are now masters.

In addition, he said that the country felt itself strong enough to provide a powerful naval force of heavy ships, for service, if needed, in the Indian and Pacific Oceans.

BRITAIN'S AIR STRENGTH

Responding to the toast of "His Majesty's Ministers," Mr. Churchill said: "Our foreign affairs are shrunken, and almost the whole of Europe is prostrate under the Nazi tyranny. The war which Hitler began by invading Poland, and which now engulfs the European Continent, and has broken into the north-east of Africa, may well engulf the greater part of Asia—nay, it may soon spread to the remaining fourth of the globe. The condition of Europe is terrible in the last degree. Hitler's firing parties are busy every day in a dozen countries—Norwegians, Belgians, Frenchmen, Dutch, Poles, Czechs, Serbs, Slovaks, Slovenes, Greeks, and, above all, in scale, Russians are being butchered by thousands and by tens of thousands after they have surrendered, while individual and mass executions in all the countries I have mentioned have become part of the regular German routine.

"The whole world has been intensely stirred by the massacre of the French hostages. The whole of France, with the exception of that small piece whose public careers depend upon a German victory, has been united in horror and indignation against this slaughter of perfectly innocent people. Admiral Darlan's tributes to German generosity fall unseasonably at this moment on French ears, and his plans for loving collaboration with the conquerors and the murderers of Frenchmen are quite appreciably embarrassed. Aye, even the arch-criminal himself, the Nazi ogre, Hitler, has been frightened by the volume and passion of world indignation which his spectacular atrocities have excited. It is he, and not the French people, who has been intimidated. He has not dared to go forward with his further programme of killing hostages.

EUROPE'S FUTURE

"This, as you will have little doubt, is not due to mercy, to compassion, to compunction, but to fear and to an appalling consciousness of personal insecurity rising in a wicked heart. I would say, generally, that we must regard all these victims of the Nazi executioners in so many lands, who are labelled Communists and Jews—we must regard them just as if they were brave soldiers who died for their country on the field of battle. Aye, in a way, their sacrifice may be more fruitful than that of the soldier who falls with his arms in his hands. A river of blood has flowed, and is flowing between the German race and the peoples of nearly all Europe. It is not the hot blood where good blows are given and returned. It is the cold blood of the execution yard and the scaffold which leaves a stain indelible for generations and for centuries.

"Here then are the foundations upon which the new order of Europe is to be inaugurated. Here then is the house warming festival of the Herrenvolk. Here then is the system of terrorism by which the Nazi criminals and their Quisling accomplices seek to rule a dozen ancient famous cities of Europe and, if possible, all the free nations of the world. In no more effective manner could they have frustrated the accomplishment of their own designs. The future and its mysteries are inscrutable, but one thing is plain. Never to those bloodstained accursed hands will the future of Europe be confided.

CHANGED SITUATION

"Since Lord Mayor's Day last year very great changes have taken place in our situation. We were then the sole champion of freedom in arms. Then we were ill-armed and far outnumbered, even in the air. Now a large part of the United States Navy, as Colonel Knox has told us, is constantly in action against the common foe; now the valiant resistance of the Russian nation has inflicted most frightful injuries upon German military power, and at the present moment the German invading armies, after all their losses, lie on the barren steppes exposed to the approaching severities of the Russian winter. Now we have an Air Force which is, at least, equal in size and numbers, not to speak of quality, to the German air power. Rather more than a year ago I announced to Parliament that we were sending a battle fleet back into the Mediterranean. The destruction of the German and Italian convoys—and the Admiralty bring us to-day news of the destruction of another Italian destroyer—the passage of our own supplies in many directions through the sea, the broken moral of the Italian Navy—all these show that we are still masters there.

"To-day I am able to go further—owing to the effective help we are getting from the United States in the Atlantic, owing to the sinking of the Bismarck, owing to the completion of our splendid new battleships and aircraft carriers of the largest size, as well as the cowing of the Italian Navy already mentioned—I am able to go further and announce to you here that we now feel ourselves strong enough to provide a powerful naval force of heavy ships, with its necessary ancillary vessels for service, if needed, in the Indian and Pacific Oceans. We stretch out the long arm of brotherhood and motherhood to the Australian and New Zealand people, and to the Indian people, whose army has already been fighting with so much distinction in the Mediterranean theatre; and this movement of our naval forces, in conjunction with the United States main fleet, may give practical proof to all who have eyes to see that the forces of freedom and democracy have not by any means reached the limit of their power.

JAPAN WARNED

"I must admit that, having fought for the Japanese alliance nearly forty years ago, in 1902, and having always done my very best to promote good relations with the island Empire of Japan, and always having been a sentimental well-wisher of Japan and an admirer of their many gifts and qualities, I would view with keen sorrow the opening of a conflict between Japan and the English-speaking world. The United States' time-honoured interests in the Far East are well known. They are doing their utmost to find a way of preserving peace in the Pacific. We do not know whether their efforts will be successful, but if they fail I take this occasion to say—and it is my duty to say—that should the United States become involved in war with Japan the British declaration will follow within the hour.

"Viewing the vast sombre scene as dispassionately as possible, it would seem a very hazardous adventure for the Japanese people to plunge quite needlessly into a world struggle, in which they will find themselves opposed—in which they may well find themselves opposed—in the Pacific by States whose population comprises nearly three-quarters of the human race. If steel is the nation's foundation of modern war, it would be rather dangerous for a Power like Japan, whose steel production is only about seven million tons a year, to provoke quite gratuitously a struggle with the United States, whose steel production is now about ninety million tons a year, and I take no account of the powerful contribution which the British Empire can make in various ways. I hope devoutly that the peace of the Pacific will be preserved in accordance with the known wishes of the wisest statesmen of Japan, but every preparation to defend British interests in the Far East, and to defend the common cause now at stake, has been, and is being, made.

"MAJESTIC POLICY"

"To return for a moment to the contrast between our position now and a year ago I must remind you—I do not need to remind you here in the city—that this time last year we did not know where to turn for a dollar for the American Exchange. By very severe measures we have been able to gather and send to America about 500 million sterling, but the end of our financial resources was in sight—nay it had been actually reached. All we could do at that time a year ago was to place orders in the United States without being able to see our way through, but on a tide of hope and not without important encouragement. Then came the majestic policy of the President and Congress of the United States in passing the Lease-Lend Bill, under which in two successive enactments about three thousand million pounds sterling were dedicated to the cause of world freedom, without—mark this, because it is unique—without the setting up of any account in money. Never again let us hear the taunt that money is the ruling thought and power in the hearts and thoughts of the American democracy. The Lease-Lend Bill must be regarded without question as the most unsordid act in the whole of recorded history.

"We, for our part, have not been found unworthy of the increasing aid we are receiving. We have made unparalleled financial and economic sacrifices ourselves, and now that the Government and people of the United States have declared their resolve that the aid they are giving us shall reach the fighting lines we shall be able to strike with all our might and main. Thus we may, without exposing ourselves to any charge of complacency, without in the slightest degree relaxing the intensity of our war effort, give thanks to Almighty God for the many wonders which have been wrought in so brief a space of time, and we may derive fresh confidence from all that has happened, and bend ourselves to our task with all the force that is in our soul, with every drop of blood that is in our veins.

"PEACE OFFENSIVE"

"We are told from many quarters that we must soon expect what is called a peace offensive from Berlin. All the usual signs and symptoms are already manifest, as the Foreign Secretary will confirm, in neutral countries, and all those signs point in one direction—they all show that the guilty men who have let hell loose upon the world are hoping to escape with their fleeting triumph and ill-gotten plunder from the closing net of doom.

"We owe it to ourselves, we owe it to our Russian allies, and to the Government and people of the United States to make it absolutely clear that, whether we are supported or alone, however long and hard the toil may be, the British nation and His Majesty's Government at the head of the nation, in intimate concert with the Governments of the great Dominions, will never enter into any negotiations with Hitler or any party in Germany which represents the Nazi régime. In that resolve we are sure that the ancient City of London will be with us to the hilt and to the end."

TWO KERRY RAILMEN KILLED

ENGINE CRASHES INTO RIVER

TWO men lost their lives early yesterday, when a goods train, bound from Tralee to Cahirciveen, was wrecked at Ardcrone, Co. Kerry. They were Maurice Hogan, engine-driver, and Philip Hanaffin, fireman, aged about 28. They were both unmarried, and were natives of Tralee.

The accident occurred on the main-line between Tralee and Killarney, about four miles north of Farranfore Junction, at Gara Bridge, at about 4 a.m. The foundations of the bridge, which is in span about four or five yards, had been undermined by the flooded waters of the Brown Flesk River. When the train was crossing the entire structure collapsed, and it is believed that the engine had actually reached the other side, but was pulled back by the weight of ten waggons falling backwards into fifteen feet of water. The guard of the train, Thomas Moriarty, and James Foley, both of Tralee, had a miraculous escape, as the guard's van and two waggons remained on the rails.

Moriarty and Foley gave the alarm, and all the available Guards and detectives at Farranfore hurried to the scene under Superintendent Hart. All day yesterday they worked, up to their waists in water, searching among the partly-submerged waggons for the bodies of the drowned men. One body was seen in the cabin of the engine, and when it was recovered at a late hour last night it proved to be that of the fireman, Hanaffin. It is understood that the body of the driver, Hogan, is pinned under the engine, which will have to be lifted to permit its recovery.

The body of Hogan was pinned under the engine and efforts to extricate it had to be suspended until to-day. Both brakes were found fully on, with Hogan's hand still clasping the lever. Most of the wagons were empty, and of the entire train only one wagon and the guard's van were undamaged.

DUBLIN FIREMEN'S HEAVY YEAR

OVER 400 FIRES EXTINGUISHED

DURING the administrative year, ended March 31st last, the Dublin Fire Brigade put out 411 fires. The actual damage to insured property in these outbreaks was £92,707, but the total value of the property directly at risk amounted to £1,451,340.

It will thus be seen that the estimated cost of running the Fire Department—about £45,000—is an excellent investment for the citizens of Dublin. Of this £45,000, £3,600 is deducted as the cost of maintaining the accident ambulance service.

"My best thanks are due to all the personnel of the Brigade for their loyal co-operation during the year," states Major J. Comerford, Chief Superintendent, at the outset of his annual report, from which the above figures are taken, "and for the way they carried out their duties during what was, from the fire-fighting and other aspects, probably the heaviest year of work which the organisation has ever had to undertake." The implementation of the scheme for reorganising the Brigade initiated in 1938-'39 was, as far as circumstances permitted, continued, but it is stressed in the report "that such reorganisation cannot be regarded as having been completely effected until the works under consideration are carried out."

Only two lives were lost at fires which the Brigade attended during the year, and, in addition, four people suffered such injury at fires that they subsequently died in hospital. Of the 411 fires dealt with, ten were serious—that is to say, the estimated damage done exceeded £1,000, and in one case reached an approximate figure of £45,000. Defective flues and hearths accounted for the greatest number of fires, due, the report states, "to the great number of old buildings in the city." Of the 141 false alarms answered by the Brigade, 92 were maliciously put into operation.

MORE AMBULANCE CASES

Dealing with the accident ambulance service, the report states that the number of actual removals at 3,806 was the greatest number dealt with in any one year. Street accident cases to the number of 2,734, and home accidents totalling 202, were dealt with, but, the report states, "the demand for a free ambulance service is still increasing, and a most unsatisfactory feature is the fact that the demands for removal from hospital to hospital during the year have been greater than ever."

GENERAL WAVELL PRAISED

A MISCALCULATION IN CYRENAICA

NEW DELHI, Monday.—When General Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, took his seat in the Council of State in New Delhi to-day, Sir Maneckji Dadabhoy, the President, in a speech of welcome, said that for the last two years it had been felt throughout Asia that the safety of India and many other countries in that Continent was indissolubly bound up with the success of General Wavell's operations in the Middle East.

General Wavell acknowledged the help in men and materials that India gave in the Middle East campaign. Following the Greek appeal practically the whole of the trained and equipped troops available in the Middle East were ordered to Greece. "Our conquests in Cyrenaica were left to be held by a garrison of partly trained and partly equipped troops. I made a miscalculation here. I did not expect the enemy to counter-attack before the end of April at the earliest—by which time I hoped to have back at least part of the seasoned Indian Division from Italian East Africa, and to have completed the equipment of the troops left in Cyrenaica. Unfortunately the enemy attacked at least a month before I expected it to be possible."

EXTENSIVE FLOODING IN THE SOUTH

MANY FAMILIES RESCUED

THE worst flooding experience for a quarter of a century has affected many areas in Munster, particularly in Counties Cork, Limerick and Kerry.

Very serious flooding occurred along the valleys of the Rivers Blackwater and Lee. At Mallow householders in Bridge street and the neighbourhood were forced to the upper storeys, and later they were evacuated.

The Red Cross Society opened a food kitchen at K. B. Williams' mills. In the same town £2,000 worth of wheat is under water and believed to be a total loss.

Carcasses of cattle and sheep floated down the Blackwater, mingled with all sorts of debris—tree branches, etc. At Mount Ruby, 150 sheep, the property of J. W. Fahy, were unaccounted for. Valuable bloodstock were also reported cut off by the water.

At Skibbereen and other county towns houses in low-lying levels were flooded all along its course. The River Lee became a heavy torrent, submerging low-lying areas on both sides.

TRAFFIC IMPEDED

Road traffic and 'bus services used alternative routes. Just outside Cork City the Carrigrohane straight road was under water and the Cork Fire Brigade spent there a busy morning rescuing families residing at the Cork Exhibition Grounds, and also at the Lee Fields a bo'sun's chair was used to effect the rescue of marooned caravan dwellers, a line being carried by a fireman, who swam over. Animals were also attended to by the rescuers. A mile further on the largest of the Cork Corporation's allotments on a former site of the Cork Industrial Exhibition was under 6ft. of water. At its entrance one family was rescued.

A man marooned in a lorry along the straight road was also brought back. The groundsman at the Mardyke football grounds was kept busy rescuing sheep from the flooded pitches. Finally he had to get a boat and row across the field to them. The greyhound racing track is also partly flooded, and, as a result, there will be no meeting on Wednesday night. Houses on lower levels in and around the city were also affected.

A rainstorm, accompanied by a heavy gale, swept over Bantry district, in which a great portion of the low-lying lands are under water. Reports from outside districts state that severe damage has been done to many roads, which are made impassable. Eight or nine lorries travelling to Tralee were held up in Glengariff by the floods. They then made an attempt to get to Macroom, but were held up there, and eventually had to return to Bantry until the floods abated. Reports also state that a number of fowl have been swept away. Houses in the town were flooded, but not much damage was done.

SERIOUS DAMAGE IN KERRY

The heavy rains caused the most serious flooding for more than fifty years over a wide area in North Kerry, where the rivers Feale, Brick, Cashen, and Gale overflowed at several points. In Killorcrin and Ennismore district four houses were knocked down, and fifty people from these areas were conveyed by motorists to the old disused hospital at Listowel, where temporary accommodation was provided. Members of the St. Vincent de Paul Society and of the local units of the Knights of Malta catered for their comfort. Several people in these districts had to quit their homes and find accommodation in hay barns, while others kept a roadside vigil. Stored crops and ricks of turf were destroyed in many areas.

A cement wall around Killorcrin school was knocked down, and the school extensively flooded. Ballyhorgan and Lixnaw areas were also abnormally flooded. The valleys of the rivers Brick and Cashen resembled a huge lake. At Listowel portions of the island bridge were swept away and the racecourse inundated.

At Pannavale motorists had to abandon their cars. The occupants of one car found themselves surrounded to a considerable depth, and one of them had to remain on the roof of the car for more than three hours. The occupants of a dwelling on this road were also forced to leave, as the house became flooded to a depth of more than six feet.

IRISH STEAMER BOMBED

TWO DUBLIN MEN INJURED

Two Dublin men were injured by bombs dropped on the s.s. Glencree in the Irish Sea on Wednesday evening last. The Glencree was on her way from Newport to Dublin with a cargo of coal for the Alliance and Dublin Consumers' Gas Company, and when about 15 miles off the Bishop's Light, on the Welsh coast, two aeroplanes appeared, flew around her, and dropped three bombs.

Two of the bombs struck the vessel, one doing slight damage and the other putting the boilers out of action and injuring the chief engineer and a member of the crew. The 'planes then flew off. The Glencree made port at Dublin on Friday night.

A member of the crew stated that the boat was flying the Irish flag and had the Irish colours prominently displayed on her. He said that the 'planes came out of the blue, and those on board the Glencree did not expect that an attack would be made once the ship's nationality was established by the airmen.

The first bomb was the only warning they got that an attack was starting, and as they took cover the second struck somewhere amidships, and the Glencree began to lose way immediately. A third bomb dropped near her, but did no damage. When the noise of the 'planes had receded the crew, which numbered eleven, found that two men had been injured, and after doing what was possible for them an attempt was made to get the ship under way again. The damage caused by the bomb amidships was extensive, and it was not till Friday night that they were able to reach Dublin, where the injured men were immediately taken care of. Two members of the crew are British; all the others are Irish.

SPAIN TALKS WITH AXIS

MADRID, Monday.—Señor Suner, Spanish Foreign Minister, had conferences to-day with the Ambassadors of Germany and Italy and the Minister of Japan.—(Reuter.)

CRASHED AIRMEN SAVED FROM SEA

TWO DAYS IN RUBBER DINGHY

SIX airmen, whose 'plane crashed into the sea near the Thames Estuary on their return journey from Berlin on Friday night, landed at Steel Bay, near Ventnor, Isle of Wight, from their rubber dinghy yesterday.

When they were first observed off Ventnor a high sea was running, and they were directed to a convenient landing place, where they were hauled ashore by willing hands. On landing they were in a weak and exhausted condition, and one was removed to hospital, the others being taken to an hotel at Ventnor. The pilot officer received severe face injuries. The six men were carried up a steep path leading to the cliff, where ambulances were waiting.

The men were the crew of a Wellington bomber which was lost in Friday night's raid on Germany.

BIG RAID ON HAMBURG

Concentrating for two hours on much-raided Hamburg, Royal Air Force bombers which flew to North-West Germany on Sunday left a trail of destruction at this vital port. A British Air Ministry communiqué yesterday stated:—

"Weather in the early part of the night was good, and at Hamburg the docks and shipbuilding yards were clearly visible in the starlight. Bombs were seen to burst on their targets, and after a concentrated attack large fires were left burning among the docks and in the town.

"Other attacks were made on the ports of Cuxhaven and Emden. The docks at Dunkirk and Ostend were also bombed. Two of our aircraft are missing."

TRAIN BOMBED IN BRITAIN

Passengers in a train on the north-east coast of England escaped unhurt when it was bombed yesterday afternoon. The attack was made by a single raider as the train was near a town. It was pulled up, but after about two hours was able to go on to a station.

The train was damaged slightly, but there were no casualties, and it reached its destination.

A stick of bombs was dropped on the outskirts of another north-east coast town by a single 'plane flying so low that one onlooker described it as "hedge-hopping." No casualties were reported and only slight damage was caused. Other raiders were reported in the vicinity of north-east England and East Anglia, but this activity was on a small scale.

NEW GAELIC PLAY AT THE GATE

"GEALACH NA FONNOIDE" PRESENTED

Micheal O hAodha, the author of last night's new play in Irish at the Gate Theatre, had a good idea in "Gealach na Fonnóide." Unfortunately, he was not quite equal to the task of working it out successfully. He tried to mix too many things—modes, characters and techniques. And among them all he produced from a promising theme something that, while it had its good moments, good lines and good situations, was almost wholly ineffective and only very occasionally was moving in the way the theme should have been.

Perhaps a playwright of the front rank could have brought this play to life, but not if he followed the pattern this dramatist sketched for himself. The author, however, need not be discouraged, even by severe criticism. If he gets down to his job and avoids the fault of running in modern style until he can walk firmly he need not shirk the race in due time. Except for two or three of the characters, the players were none too happily cast. Even then it is doubtful if better casting could have breathed life into some of the characters.

The most satisfactory—and they were good—were Séamus O Caomhanaigh as Mickser and Séamus O Tuama as Liam Seoighe, but, after all, these were minor parts. Gearóid O Lochlainn, in the major rôle of Micheal Mac Morna, was given a thankless part by the author, and even his ability could not make much of the little given to make anything of. Once or twice in the last scenes he did impress by sheer quality of acting. Others in the cast were: Séan O Conchubhair—who was also the producer, for An Comhar Dramuidhcha—Séamus O Briain, Nuala Nic Ghabhann, P. Mac Casarlaigh, Idé Ni Fhlailthimh, S. Breathnach, Caitlin Ni Chatháin, S. Mac Shamhráin and D. O hAinlighe.

THE STORY OF TOC H

Toc H was born out of the impatience of a parson during the Great War, said Mr. D. Williams Kennan, in a lecture on the origin and growth of Toc H to the members of the Presbyterian Association in 16 St. Stephen's Green, Dublin, last night. Mr. Kennan said that the founder of Toc H, the Rev. "Tubby" Clayton, impatient with inactivity while his men were fighting at Ypres, opened a rest house for soldiers at the rail terminus behind the lines. This was called Talbot House in honour of a young soldier, and the name became shortened to Toc H, which is the signaller's name for the initial letters. A notice displayed therein said: "All rank abandon, ye who enter here," and there men could meet on level ground. "Tubby," after the war, decided to keep Toc H going. Born out of the needs of men, Toc H, said Mr. Kennan, grew with the personality of the right man, and survived because it was needed in the purpose of God.

Mr. J. Inglis presided.

RATHMINES TRADER SHOT

CIVIC GUARD IN CUSTODY

GERARD O'GRADY, 45 years old publican and cinema director, was shot when making a telephone call at 217 Rathmines road, Dublin, yesterday afternoon.

Two bullets, fired from a revolver, penetrated his body. One passed between his lungs, the other passed through the upper arm, just missing the main arteries. A third bullet missed and shattered the glass partition of the "snug" immediately in front of him, and became embedded in a wooden seat.

Mr. O'Grady is in St. Vincent's Hospital, Dublin. His condition is "reasonably satisfactory," and he is expected to recover.

MAN REMANDED

Later yesterday Taca Guard Michael J. Sherwin, a native of Roscommon, who is attached to the Rathmines Barracks, was accused of attempting to murder Mr. O'Grady.

When Sherwin was brought before District Justice McCarthy, in the Dublin District Court, Superintendent J. Riordan gave formal evidence of arrest, saying that the accused man, in reply to the charge, remarked: "I have nothing to say."

Asked by the District Justice if he wished to cross-examine the Superintendent, Sherwin said: "No, sir." He was remanded in custody until Monday's sitting of the Court.

Mr. O'Grady, who is managing director of the Stella Cinema in Rathmines, is married, and has two children, the youngest of whom was born a few weeks ago.

Edward Sheridan, an assistant in Mr. O'Grady's public-house, told an Irish Times reporter that shortly after 10 a.m. yesterday a man walked into the shop and asked for Mr. O'Grady, saying that he wanted to see him "about a couple of pints," at the same time making some reference to "the apparatus in the cinema." Being unable to see him then he went away and returned after about two hours. He stood for a couple of minutes in conversation with Mr. Sheridan, and then walked around the counter to where Mr. O'Grady was speaking on the telephone. Mr. O'Grady waved the man away. The man then stepped back, and, drawing a revolver, fired three times through a glass panel at Mr. O'Grady.

Mr. Sheridan and the other assistant ran towards the back of the shop, and two customers who were in the shop rushed out. Mr. O'Grady managed to get out of the shop as far as the Stella Cinema, a few doors away, into which he staggered, crying: "I'm shot." He then collapsed and was taken to St. Vincent's Hospital.

HEAVY FINES IN ENNIS CASE

ONE DIRECTOR TO PAY £300 AND EXPENSES

THE case against two directors of L. Jordan and Co., Ennis—Walter Chapman and Ted Town—who were charged with conspiracy, fraudulent conversion and uttering forged documents, ended yesterday, before Mr. Justice Hanna, in the Central Criminal Court, when a plea of guilty on one count was entered. The case had been before the Court for three days.

Chapman was fined £300 and directed to pay the £750 prosecution expenses, while Town was fined £50.

The count on which the plea of guilty had been entered was one charging them with uttering a forged invoice which purported that goods to the value of £169 18s. 1d. had been purchased from L. Jordan, Ltd., Leicester.

The fines were paid and the two men were discharged.

COUNSEL'S STATEMENT

Mr. J. A. Costello, K.C., who (instructed by Mr. E. Monahan, solicitor, Ennis) defended, said that they had decided to ask his lordship to accept a plea of "guilty" on one count on the basis that there had been no fraud. The count on which the plea was entered had reference to invoices entered, to one of which the auditor had called Mr. Chapman's attention before the case had started. Mr. Chapman had agreed that all those irregularities should be set right.

His clients did not wish to have the stigma of fraud on their characters. They recognised that the manner in which they had offset over payments for stock was not regular, but they did not get a chance of putting these matters right. Mr. Chapman's attitude was that Town had only a minor position in the company, and he (Mr. Chapman) was willing to take the entire blame.

Mr. Justice Hanna said that after serious consideration he had come to the conclusion that a severe fine would be sufficient justification in the eyes of the law. In arriving at the amount of the fine he had taken into account that it was possible the Ennis Company might be able to recover from the Leicester Company the moneys paid out of the Ennis Company without legal consideration or the authority of the board where necessary, and that the Revenue Commissioners had powers to recover whatever balance might be due to them through an insufficient return being made for income and corporation profits taxes.

H.M.S. COSSACK SUNK

An official British Admiralty communiqué yesterday reported that H.M.S. Cossack (Captain R. T. Berthon, D.S.C., R.N.) has been sunk.

Highlights in the career of the destroyer were:—

February 16th, 1940—Rescued 300 British merchant seamen from the Altmark, on Jocssing Fjord, Norway.

April 13, 1940—In the second battle of Narvik, seven German destroyers sunk.

October 13, 1940—Took part in the annihilation of a German convoy and its escorts within less than three miles of the German coast.

May 27, 1941—Shadowed and torpedoed the German battleship Bismarck a few hours before her destruction.

After the Altmark "incident" Captain (now Rear Admiral) R. T. Vian, who commanded the Cossack, and the leader of the boarding party, each received the D.S.O.

GERMAN PRESSURE ON CRIMEA

RUSSIANS ATTACKING ON THREE SECTORS

THE German High Command claims further advances east of Sebastopol, which night and day is being fiercely assailed by the Luftwaffe, which, Berlin states, has succeeded in firing large oil tanks and warehouses, and damaging a cruiser and merchantman in the harbour. Further progress west of Kerch is also claimed in Berlin.

On the Northern front the Germans claim the capture of the "important communications junction" of Tikhivin, about 100 miles east-south-east of Leningrad.

In the sectors of Volokolamsk and Mozhaisk Soviet troops are attacking, and another Red Army counter-attack is also in progress in the Serpukhov region.

BERLIN, Monday.—The German News Agency to-day stated that "desperate Russian counter-attacks" brought the German advance to the approaches of Sebastopol to a "temporary standstill" on Saturday. But the Germans then, it was claimed "delivered a blow which threw the Russians far back from the points from which they started, and the steady German pressure on Sebastopol was then resumed."—(Associated Press.)

Moscow's most celebrated buildings, the Bolshoi Theatre and Moscow University, are reported to have been damaged by German bombs in a delayed Kiubishev message.

TRANSPORT SUNK

German radio to-night claimed that a long-range battery had sunk a Soviet transport of 18,000 tons and four Russian E-boats in the Black Sea. A Soviet submarine was also said to have been damaged between the River Donetz and the Volga. A Soviet munition train, a fuel train and a goods train were said to have been destroyed.—(Associated Press.)

Axis forces have established further bridgeheads on the left bank of the Donetz. They have also occupied several important junctions in the south-eastern bend of the Donetz, states a Hungarian communiqué, quoted by Budapest radio to-night.—(Reuter.)

SOVIET COMMUNIQUE

The midnight Red Army communiqué states:—"During November 10th our troops fought the enemy on all fronts, fighting being particularly fierce on the Crimean and Tula sectors of the front. On November 9th 12 German 'planes were brought down in air combats. We lost five 'planes.

"On November 9th Red air units destroyed and put out of commission 70 enemy tanks, 23 guns, 4 anti-aircraft installations, 460 lorries with infantry and military supplies, 17 armoured cars, up to 50 motor cycles, and many carts with ammunition. They dispersed and annihilated about one infantry regiment and two cavalry squadrons.

GERMANS DRIVEN BACK

LONDON, Monday.—The capture of a village on the eastern bank of the River Nara, in the Narofominsk—south-west of Moscow—area, and its recapture by the Russians is reported by Pravda correspondent, quoted by Moscow Radio to-night. The Germans effected the crossing under cover of artillery and trench mortar fire, but Soviet infantry, counter-attacking, forced them to abandon the village. The Russians pursued the remnants of the German units and threw them back to the opposite bank of the river.

In the Maloyaroslavetz direction German concentrations of infantry and tanks tried unsuccessfully to attack in small groups during Sunday night, but the Soviet soldier consolidated their positions. Despite bad weather Soviet aircraft attacked mechanised German columns and their infantry operating in this sector. Four German 'planes were destroyed on their aerodrome together with fourteen tanks and forty lorries loaded with troops, and about a company of German infantry was annihilated.—(Reuter.)

NORWEGIAN AND GREEK SHIPS LOST

NEW YORK, Monday.—The Greek freighter, Evros (5,200 tons), was sunk in the Atlantic about ten days ago, and the Greek freighter, Marouko Pateras (4,200 tons), was wrecked on the Newfoundland coast on November 4, marine circles report. The Norwegian tanker, Barfonn (9,860 tons), has been sunk in the Atlantic, according to an Oslo telegram.

The Norwegian freighter, Silva Plana, a motor-ship, loaded with rubber and tin for American defence, is more than a month overdue, and believed sunk.

The sinkings, it was stated, may be due to an Axis raider.—(Reuter.)

Bob: "I am delighted with the good news that you two got married. Where did you spend your honeymoon?

Tom: "We went to Rosapenna. We had a delightful holiday, but our greatest joy was when we came back and saw how artistically Todd, Burns furnished our home.

Bob: "I am very interested as I am thinking of getting married.

Tom: "You must come and see our home. We selected £500 worth of furniture and all we had to pay was a small deposit, we made the usual arrangement to pay over 3 years. It is a splendid idea.

DISMISSAL OF E.S.B. OFFICIAL

APPEAL BY THE BOARD

Arguments were opened, and adjourned, in support of an appeal of the Electricity Supply Board, from a judgment of the High Court declaring that an order made by the Board, purporting to dismiss Francis Arthur Cox, 24 Avoca road, South Circular road, Dublin, from his office in the Board's employment, was ultra vires, and directing an inquiry in regard to the damages he had suffered by reason of such dismissal.

In his action Mr. Cox, in addition to claiming a declaration that the order of the Board purporting to dismiss him was ultra vires, stated that the sanction of the Minister for Local Government and Public Health was necessary to his dismissal, and had not been obtained.

The Board submitted that the trial judge had misdirected himself in law, and had been wrong in fact, in holding that the order of the Board purporting to dismiss Mr. Cox was ultra vires.

Mr. Costello, K.C.; Mr. McGonigal, K.C., and Mr. Marnan (instructed by Messrs. A. Cox and Co.) appeared for the Board; and Mr. Francis Arthur Cox appeared in person.

PETITION FOR DIVORCE

WIFE'S ALLEGATIONS OF CRUELTY

(BEFORE MR. JUSTICE MARTIN MAGUIRE AND A JURY.)

Mrs. Aimée Mary McKenna, whose address was given in her affidavit as 8 Merrion square, Dublin, petitioned for a divorce from her husband, Richard Eugene McKenna, farmer, Woodlands, Stradbally, Leix, on the grounds of alleged cruelty.

The further hearing was adjourned.

It appeared that the parties were married at Glasnevin Parish Church on September 10th, 1936, Mrs. McKenna, whose maiden name was Jessop, being the widow of Hugh Bennett McGowan, Kilkenny.

Mrs. McKenna stated in her petition that nine months after her marriage her husband called her names and threatened her. During the summer of 1938 he struck her three or four times on the face. At Christmas, 1938, he kicked her in the presence of workmen, because she had forgotten to switch off the engine of his motor car, and, at Whit, 1939, while she was saying "good night" to a lady at the hall door he threw a pail of water over her. In September, 1940, and May, 1941, he locked the doors and windows of the house against her because she was not in at 10 p.m.

Mr. McKenna, in his answer, admitted the incident of September, and stated that he was provoked to the act by the conduct of the petitioner, who, he said, in wilful disobedience to his express orders, and despite his remonstrances and entreaties, habitually had absented herself from the house at night at card parties and other entertainments. All the other allegations he denied, and he pleaded condonation.

Mr. J. M. Fitzgerald, K.C.; Mr. McGuckin, K.C., and Mr. Ernest M. Wood (instructed by Mr James Fagan) appeared for Mrs. McKenna, and Mr. Kingsmill Moore, K.C.; Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C., and Mr. C. F. Matheson (instructed by Mr. Arthur W. Jefferts) for Mr. McKenna.

THEFT OF A BICYCLE

James Duffy, no fixed address, was sentenced to two months' imprisonment by District Justice McCarthy in the Dublin District Court for stealing a bicycle. He was arrested by Guard R. O'Shea, who had to chase him through several streets.

LOST CINEMA VOUCHERS

Four boys—Paul Belton and Christopher Duff, Little Denmark street; Michael Cowley, Parnell street; and Christopher Kane, Carnlough road, West, Cabra—were charged before District Justice McCarthy in the Dublin District Court with the illegal possession of two vouchers for booked seats at the Adelphi Cinema.

The evidence showed that a lady's bag, containing the vouchers, had been stolen by two women. The lady reported her loss. Meanwhile Phyllis Belton, aged 12, sister of one of the boys, found the tickets. She gave them to her brother, who gave them to Cowley. Cowley sold them to Duff and Kane. When the two last presented them at the Adelphi on Sunday night they were detained and the police sent for.

ATHLONE MILLS FIRE

(BEFORE THE PRESIDENT OF THE HIGH COURT AND A JURY.)

The case for the Athlone Woollen Mills Co., Ltd., was opened, in the action against them by Hilda Richardson and Elsie Webster, proprietors of Rosleven Boarding and Day School, Northgate street, Athlone, claiming damages for the destruction of their premises by the spread of the fire that occurred in the mills on November 11 of last year.

The company plead that no action is sustainable in respect of damage to the school, as the fire was accidental.

The hearing had not concluded when the Court adjourned.

Mr. Michael Binchy, K.C.; Mr. Barra O Briain, K.C., and Mr. O. Keane (instructed by Mr. I. H. Houlihan) appeared for the plaintiffs; and Mr. Brereton Barry, K.C.; Mr. Paul McCarthy, K.C., and Mr. Robert Hogan (instructed by Messrs. Fair and Murtagh) for the defendants.

Your Child's Health is at Stake

There is danger in "saving" on Home Remedies—Ask Your Doctor

One point on which all doctors, nurses and child welfare experts agree is — Never give your child unknown remedies without asking your doctor first.
All mothers know this, but not all practise it. Often the instinct to save a few pennies by buying "something just as good" overcomes their caution.
So when your little one has an upset stomach, is sick and bilious, get 'Milk of Magnesia.' Then you can rest assured that you have the safest and best antacid that money can buy. Prescribed by doctors and used by nurses, 'Milk of Magnesia' is the ideal preparation for a child. It sweetens a sour stomach in a few minutes. It cools the blood and gently regulates the bowels as nothing else can.
Many mothers find 'Milk of Magnesia' brand Tablets handy. Their pleasant mint flavour appeals very strongly to children, who take them eagerly.
Obtainable everywhere.
'Milk of Magnesia' 1/3 and 2/6 (Treble Size). Also 'Milk of Magnesia' Tablets 6d., 1/-, 2/- and 3/6.
'MILK OF MAGNESIA' (Regd.)
* 'Milk of Magnesia' is the trade mark of Phillips' preparation of Magnesia.

CRUISKEEN LAWN

By MYLES NA gCOPALEEN

Líonadh na postanna a bhí folamh san Institiúid um Árd-Léighinn agus ní bhfuair mise fiú "lúc-in." Ag sin an saoghal!

Acht beidh lá eile ag an gCopalánach, creid uaimse é. Ní beidh mé go deo gan an leabhar bog, an cusparsal atá mór, an mótor féin ciúin. Ar bhealach nó ar bhealach eile geobhad cothrom na féinne. Nó cothrom an fáinne.

SCÉAL.

Tamall maith blianta ó shoin marbhadh tiarna talmhan i gCorca Dhorcha agus gabhadh fear bocht Gaedhealach le na póilíní. Nuair tháinig lá na triallach, tugadh bochtáin áirithe ar Chorca Dhorcha go Baile Átha Cliath mar fhiadhnaisí. Fuaradh lóistín dóibh i dteach beag ortha agus dubhradh leo an órdóg gan iad a leigint amach ar fud na sráideanna ar eagla na mótor agus na tighthe tabhairne. Gach maidin beirthí fá dhéin na cúirte iad.

AN DARA CAIBIDEAL.

Bhí sin maith-go-leor. Acht tráthnóna breágh gréine amháin, d'éirigh le fear bocht amháin éalódh ón teach ortha agus imtheacht leis ag spaisteoireacht ar fud na cathrach agus ag déanamh iongantais ar gach a bhfaca sé. Sroich sé Dé... agus imtheacht leis. Cuir na h-e... dearca geala gliondair ar a chroidhe. An cuntar amháin bhraith sé neithe beaga ceannaigheachta. Tóg sé ceann go fiosrach agus d'féach air.

"M'anam ón diabhal!" ar seisean, "M'athair! M'athair féinig! Pictiúir m'athairín atá mar so!"

Séard a bhí aige 'na sheacán, rud nár thuig sé agus nach bhfaca sé roimhe. Ceannuigh sé ar dhá pighinn é agus d'fill go dtí an teach ortha arís le h-áthas agus éigse-croidhe.

Níor léig sé a rún le h-aoinne. Acht nuair beidh faill aige beidh 'na chuideachtain féin, beireadh sé amach an seacán agus d'féachadh sé go gnáthmhar ar an gnúis athara a bhí breacta ann.

"M'athair, m'athair!" adeireadh sé.

Bhí sin maith-go-leor freisin.

DEIREADH AN SCÉIL.

Tar éis na triallach agus tar éis crochta an fir a gabhadh, chuaidh na fiadhnaisí uilig 'n-a' baile go Corca Dorcha. Fear an seacáin, níor dhubhairt sé faic le h-aoinne i dtaobh a rúin. Acht tar éis tamaillín, bhraith a bhean nach raibh gach nídh mar ba chóir. Bhí rud éigin á cheilt ag a fear uaithi. D'éirigh sí mí-céadfach agus fiosrach.

Oidhche amháin nuair bhí sé na chodladh tar éis babhta poitín, d'éirigh sise i ngan-fhios agus chuaidh sí ag triallaire agus ag cuartú a bhrollaigh. Tháinig a lámh ar an seacán. Tug sí é fá dhéin an troluir agus d'féach air.

AG FÉACHAINT SIAR.

"£5,000,000—Is mór an cnap airgid é £5,000,000. Dá dtiubhradh císte Sasan dúinn é, béadh daoine áirithe ag léimnigh ar a gcorp le teann áthais agus pimeid; béadh sin. Tá an méad sin airgid le fagháil ar fud áirithe i nÉirinn gach bliadhain feasta, má's mian linn féin é. 'Sé an fud sin cruithneacht. Os cionn leith-céad bliadhan ó shoin cuirtí an oiread cruithneachta is beathochadh an méad daoine atá i nÉirinn indiu faoi cheathair. Anois tá atruagha sgéil ann. Ní mar bhíodh atá. Remembrance

Twenty-three years ago to-day, at the eleventh hour of the eleventh month of the Year of Grace, 1918, the last shot was fired on the Western front of the Great War. For more than four years Great Britain and France, on the one hand, and Germany, on the other, had been in death grips. Many other nations were involved. Half the civilised world was at war before the Armistice was signed; and when at last the fighting came to an end the continent of Europe lay stricken. Almost a generation has passed since those days of universal rejoicing. For a brief space of time the world became delirious with joy. At last the "war to end war" was over. Mankind was on the threshold of a brave new world; the follies of the past were about to be forgotten, and henceforward men and women would live in peace with one another, freed from the shackles of power-politics, and members of a community in which the principles of right and justice would be the governing factors. One still remembers those days in Paris when Woodrow Wilson fired the imagination of civilisation with his burning words. A tide is rising in the hearts of men, he declared; and the hearts of men were glad. The League of Nations was launched in that garish room at the Quai d'Orsay. Solemn oaths were sworn by the leading statesmen of the world; and all that seemed to remain was the immediate beating into ploughshares of the swords that for four years had created such havoc. Nearly a quarter of a century has gone; and the world is at war again. The League of Nations has been forgotten; the Kellogg Pact, outlawing war in perpetuity, is as dead as the Holy Alliance. The Locarno agreement, which was to have healed the secular breach between France and Germany, has passed into the limbo of human futilities; and on the twenty-third anniversary of the Armistice German soldiers are taking their ease in the Tuileries. It seems almost sacrilegious to observe Armistice Day, even as a day of remembrance; for mankind has been false to the memories of those millions of bright young lives that were sacrificed during those years of bitter trial. The war that is in progress at present is far more frightful, far more cruel, and far more senseless than that which destroyed the flower of the last generation. Once again the former antagonists are in the field. There have been minor changes in the alignment of Powers; but, for all practical purposes, the adversaries and the issues are the same. Those who will pay their tribute of silent homage to the dead to-day will feel an abiding sense of shame.

"If ye break faith with us who die,
We shall not sleep, though poppies grow
In Flanders fields,"

wrote one of the poets of the last war; and the galling fact, which must be faced by every man and woman alive to-day, is that faith has been broken. The generation that survived the shambles of 1914-1918 has made a mockery of the blood sacrifice of the men who fell in battle. Once again young men in the full splendour of youth are being sent to their death throughout Europe. Once again hopes of a better world are being held out to those who are ready to die. For a few minutes to-day in every country thoughts will turn back and dwell upon the memories of twenty-three years ago. Remembrance Day this year will remind our generation not only of its predecessor's glory, but of its own unworthiness.

The National Being

Thirty years ago Ireland looked to the co-operative movement for her rejuvenation. A.E.'s magnificent book, "The National Being," had become the gospel of thousands of patriots—Unionist, Nationalist, and Sinn Fein—who, however widely differing in political creed, were at one in their praise of its doctrine of economic self-help, via community action. Co-operative societies had sprung up throughout the length and breadth of the country. Some had died as hastily as they had been born; others were lingering unto extinction; still others showed every sign of a lusty existence; a few—a very few—have lasted to the present day. The organisation that controlled these societies, and continues to control what is left of them, is yet alive; but the spirit which prompted the movement in those early days is dead, or, at the least, moribund. Ireland's farmers have ceased to "co-operate": where they do not trust to their own resources they depend upon a central Government that tells them what to do and what not to do, assures them of fixed prices, subsidises them against this and the other loss, or makes up the difference between what they get and what they think they ought to get. These changes have not been highly satisfactory. They have destroyed much of the pride that used to be attached to farmers, and they have not done so much to improve their condition. Clearly a return to the old system—the old, untried system—of co-operation is needed. A lead has been given by Muintir na Tire, that admirable organisation which for many years past has preached the doctrine of rural self-sufficiency, with results that are becoming manifest only to-day. Its teachings are novel—in an age of industrialisation—but they reach backwards to make contact with "The National Being" and the hey-day of the co-operative societies: on which account it is not surprising to discover that Dr. James Ryan, the Minister for Agriculture, chose a Muintir na Tire meeting as the scene of an important pronouncement on the subject of farmers' co-operation. The pronouncement, to be sure, was not of crystalline lucidity; yet its net effect was that a Co-operative Bill was in course of preparation, that it would cope with some of the abuses which helped to shatter the movement of thirty years ago, and that it would demand a genuine spirit of co-operation among the farmers. We welcome the information, while we venture to express a hope that the measure, like so many others of similarly good intent, will not be ruined by thoughtless drafting. The European war, which has brought new problems to Ireland, has brought also a new spirit. We know now that the old notions of individualism, which worked so well once, and of direct help by the State will be applicable no longer, but that a new system of community effort will be needed for the country's salvation and prosperity. Can the effort be made? We believe so; but it will demand faith and enterprise on the part both of the country and of the cities. Perhaps, the new bill will point a way to the country. The cities must work out their own salvation, and we do not despair of their success.

School Hours

The Department of Education recently recommended the managers of Dublin city schools to start classes at ten o'clock each morning, instead of, as formerly, nine o'clock or half-past nine. This recommendation has been made at the request of the Dublin United Transport Company, which believes that such a step greatly would relieve pressure on the city's transport facilities during rush hours and consequently would conserve supplies of fuel. Under the present circumstances the children are travelling to school at the same time that the adults are travelling to business, and it frequently happens that adults—who may possibly be engaged in work of some importance—have to be refused admission to 'buses, which are crowded with school-children. Owing to the shortage of oil the 'bus services cannot be increased, even during the rush hours, and the company cannot very well refuse to take the children, so that the only way out of the difficulty is to "stagger" the hours, and arrange the school hours that the children do not leave their homes until after the rush period. The system has been tried in only one school so far, but there it seems to be working with admirable success, and, according to reports, there has been a distinct improvement in the routes concerned. Other schools, however, are not co-operating with the Transport Company and the Department of Education in the scheme; like the Joint Committee of Women's Societies and Social Workers, they are under the impression that it would cause hardship both to the school-children and to their parents. They argue that, as a result of the change in time, school-children would not get their dinner until about four-thirty in the afternoon, and that they would have little or no time for play in the open air. In the home, they point out, the system would mean a waste of fuel on the one hand and a waste of the mother's time on the other. Admittedly, the system may have a few disadvantages; but surely they are far outweighed by its advantages? If the schools do not open until ten o'clock, the children will not have to rise so early, and, since our clocks still are about an hour and twenty minutes before sun-time, this will make things a great deal easier for them when the cold weather sets in. The fact that the children will be travelling to school at a comparatively slack period will mean that they will travel more comfortably and that the conductors will be able to devote more attention to their safety. In the matter of dinners, they will be no worse off than previously; but surely this is the time to reform the whole system and give the children a sufficiently long lunch-hour to enable them to travel home and get a proper dinner.

OLD SOLDIERS

THESE men remember still
Comrades who fought and died;
They hear the bugle shrill,
And think again, with pride,
Of battles won upon some distant hill.

They know that, even then,
War was a hideous thing
Of shattering shells: of men
In icy seas, who cling
To wave-washed boards, dreaming of some loved glen.

Remembering they stand
With greying heads held high;
Then turn to lend a hand
To those who watch, and try
To warn of danger to their quiet land.

They know the time is here
For bitterness to go;
Good comradeship and cheer
Are what old soldiers know,
Who marched stout-hearted in the face of fear.

MUSIC RECITALS AT R.D.S.

POLISH VIOLINIST

The recitals at the Royal Dublin Society, Ballsbridge, yesterday were given by Isidore Shlaen, a young Polish violinist, and the many hundreds present at the afternoon recital were rewarded with some very fine violin playing. Mr. Shlaen certainly has a very polished and facile technique, and in a composition like Tartini's Sonata in G minor, which taxes the player's resources, he was always over the work technically. His art was also very evident in the shapely phrasing of the music and the variation of colour he imparted. Much the same applied to his treatment of the interesting Concerto in A minor of Glazounow—the inner sections of which were beautifully played, but here, as in the other works, not quite getting into the middle of the note. Still it was a very minor blemish, and one of which even Kreisler at times is guilty. There was a lovely sense of atmosphere in his playing of Dohnanyi's Sonata in C sharp minor.

He was very happy in "Hora Staccata" by Dinicu, the Tartini Variations arranged by Kreisler, and a very neat arrangement by Arthur Duff of Maighread Ni hAnnagain's Eamonn an Chnuic.

Miss Dorothy Stokes was a very confident and inspiring accompanist.

SUGAR FOR EVERYONE IN EIRE

This year Eire's four sugar factories, at Carlow, Thurles, Tuam and Mallow, will produce 100,000 tons of beet sugar—the normal requirements of the nation—said Mr. John P. Flynn, M.Sc., who gave "A Technical Review of the Irish Sugar Industry" at a meeting of the Engineering and Scientific Association of Ireland, held yesterday in the Engineers' Hall, 35 Dawson street, Dublin. Mr. Flynn traced the history of the sugar beet industry, which, he said, was originated by Napoleon. The factory at Carlow, founded in 1926, dealt with two thousand tons of beet a day, producing three hundred tons of sugar.

Mr. Warren Storey, M.I.E.E., M.I.C.E. (I.), President of the Association, presided.

THREE DUBLIN EXHIBITIONS

Three exhibitions of paintings were opened yesterday in Dublin. The most important, and also the most interesting, of these is that by the President of the Academy, Mr. Dermod O'Brien, in Picture Hire Club, Molesworth street, Dublin. Mr. Hilton Edwards declared it open, and drew attention to its unique character.

There are twenty-two pictures on view, and in sum they constitute the record of a lifetime. Save for an excellent portrait of "AE" done in 1914 and two or three other subjects, the canvases exhibit landscape descriptions of wide range, in which this artist's excelling talent is variously set forth.

No. 17, "April," 1900, is of charming imagination, joy and grace being the delighting notes of the theme. A girl, slim and lithe, with whirling drapery, dances in ecstasy, surrounded by joyful cherubs. In "The Sand Pit," 1907, the painter has judiciously relieved the darker green masses of heavy colour with central touches of white and red. In delightful contrast is No. 20, "February Sunshine," 1920, so full of light and so descriptive of the season. In No. 1, "Tanrago Harbour, Co. Sligo," sky and water are equally matters of particular attraction, and the artist's very direct, sure crashing in of the water surface is a point to be noted and contrasted. No. 11, "Study for a Classical Picture," is so beautiful in pose and painting that one would wish to see the subject of which it is portion.

The exhibition will continue until the 20th inst.

At the Contemporary Picture Galleries, 133 Lower Baggot street, Dublin, "Three New Dublin Painters"—Cicely Peel, Bobby Dawson and Phyllis Hayward—have obeyed impulses towards the beautiful with varying degrees of success. Cicely Peel may claim the premier place in this exhibition with her bold and broad water-colours—No. 12, "Summer Wind," and No. 11, "Trees"; also the very effective simplicity of the street corner, No. 9, "Mentone."

Phyllis Hayward's oil paintings, Nos. 36, 37 and 38, show attractive patterns in confused designs. There is artistic apprehension and latent descriptive ability shown in the water-colours, "Epping Forest" and "Near Raheny."

Bobby Dawson's sincerest work is to be seen in Nos. 34 and 35, though he has refused to declare all he saw. He is admirably Cezannesque in his guache painting of grapes and apples in No. 32.

Miss Ethel G. Battersby is showing forty-seven paintings at the Country Shop, St. Stephen's Green, Dublin. She is a straightforward, unaffected painter of landscape and still life in oils, with a few tempera studies. Of the latter, Nos. 7 and 8 are engaging views. In more than a dozen descriptions of flowers the artist has produced highly effective renderings in form and colour of "Chrysanthemums," No. 35, and "Begonias," No. 25. The dark picture, No. 1, "A Connemara Bog," is impressive and painted with a free hand. "The Woodland Path" is an attractive picture.

Paintings of flower gardens make pretty pictures.

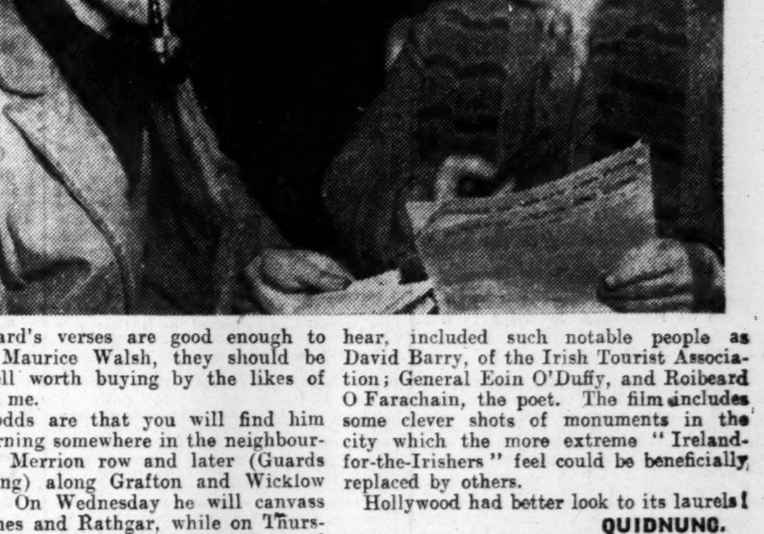

AN IRISHMAN'S DIARY

The Tramp Poet

If you see a red-headed person, somewhat resembling the figure on the left in the accompanying photograph, do not pass by on the other side, like the Levite and the other fellow, but stop him and buy one. He will be Roe Ward, the "tramp poet," concerning whom I spoke some weeks ago, and he will be hawking his broadsheet, "A Bundle of Wrack and Corn."

The broadsheet was issued on Saturday, and already its author-vendor is a familiar figure in many of the streets, coffee-houses, "pubs" and other places of popular resort in and around this city. The picture shows him having just accomplished a sale to Maurice Walsh, and, if Roe Ward's verses are good enough to attract Maurice Walsh, they should be very well worth buying by the likes of you and me.

The odds are that you will find him this morning somewhere in the neighbourhood of Merrion row and later (Guards permitting) along Grafton and Wicklow streets. On Wednesday he will canvass Rathmines and Rathgar, while on Thursday I venture to predict that National University will be his beat.

He has chosen a most ingenious—as well as traditional—mode of distributing his work. Give him the encouragement he deserves.

"Shooting" the Red

Are we Irish natural law-breakers? Dublin's contemptuous treatment of its traffic-lights suggests the question. Controlling accelerative impulse by a series of simple signals, which even children can understand, those lights are surely foolproof.

In any other city in the world, red means Stop, amber Get Ready, green Go. Dublin's interpretation is: red Stop (if you're not in a particular hurry, or already half-way across), amber Go, and green GOOD-BYE!

At five in the morning I have seen New Yorkers sitting behind the wheels of their cars, facing absolutely empty crossings, waiting for the green: London messenger cyclists stopped on the red, one foot down, and not even a stray cat in sight on a half-mile of road. These people know that the lights are there for their protection, and it is a point of civic honour to observe them.

Why cannot Dubliners do the same? Last night, cycling beneath the 1 a.m. peal of St. Patrick's, I dutifully halted on the red at the Coombe corner. Almost five minutes passed—and a half-dozen other cyclists, all going in the same direction as I! Feeling sufficiently a fool, after a further few minutes, I walked my bike across the red, and slunk on two wheels up New street. There is such a thing as being too law-abiding.

A Gaelic Film

Craobh na hAiseirghe, that most energetic of Gaelic bodies—on which I have commented several times of late—has, I hear, just released its first film, "Aiseirghe," a twenty-minute documentary film about the activities of the branch, prepared by Liam O Laoghaire, of the Irish Film Society.

The other evening a mixed, but enthusiastic, audience attended a showing of the film in the Parochial Hall on the Mount Merrion Estate. The audience, I hear, included such notable people as David Barry, of the Irish Tourist Association; General Eoin O'Duffy, and Roibeard O Farachain, the poet. The film includes some clever shots of monuments in the city which the more extreme "Ireland-for-the-Irishers" feel could be beneficially replaced by others.

Hollywood had better look to its laurels!

IRISH INVENTIONS EXHIBITION

The Secretary, National Agricultural and Industrial Development Association, 3 St. Stephen's Green, writes:—

The N.A.I.D.A. has arranged for an exhibition of inventions, models and aircraft at the Mansion House, Dublin, for the week ending November 22nd, from 10 a.m. to 10.30 p.m. Bilingual oral demonstrations and short talks will also be given by competent authorities. The Department of Education has given permission to the N.A.I.D.A. to write the managers of primary schools (pupils of the sixth standard and higher only) and secondary schools to allow their pupils to attend—the time so spent to constitute an "attendance" at school. Organised school parties only, and accompanied by their teachers, will be admitted free from 10 a.m. to 1 p.m. each morning, commencing Tuesday, November 18th.

Managers of schools willing to avail themselves of this should apply by post to the Secretary not later than Friday next, November 14th, stating the date and time suitable to them and also the number of pupils they will send to this exhibition.

MAKING TURF BRIQUETTES

Speaking at the Rotary Club luncheon, held yesterday in the Gresham Hotel, Dublin, Mr. H. S. Lee, A.M.I.M.E., M.I.F., described in interesting detail the Peco process, used at Lullymore, for the draining and preparation of the bog, the winning of the raw material, its transport and storage, and the ultimate processing in the factory leading to the finished briquette.

For supplying raw peat to a factory having an output of 50,000 tons per annum, he said, it was necessary to cultivate at least 600 statute acres of bog. He then dealt with the various steps of this cultivation—the operation of the "ditching machine," the "offset miller," the "flat miller," the "ridger," and the "harvester."

Finishing his description of the actual factory process, Mr. Lee pointed out that not only did they use their own steam for generating power and drying the peat powder, but also that this steam was generated by waste peat products, which, in turn, were made usable by the waste gases, or "smoke," from the boiler.

A vote of thanks to the speaker, proposed by Mr. A. G. Bruty, was seconded by Mr. Vincent O'Hare (president).

Eggless Recipe BY 'ROYAL'
HOW 'ROYAL' KEEPS DOWN COSTS IN THE KITCHEN
Royal Baking Powder prevents waste by overcoming the worst cause of baking failures—faulty raising—and safeguarding costly ingredients.
It saves eggs! For each egg omitted from your recipe use a level teaspoonful of baking powder and add a little extra milk. For all baking use plain flour and Royal Baking Powder.

RAISIN CAKE
6 ozs. flour, 6 ozs. raisins, 1 level teaspoonful Royal Baking Powder, 4 ozs. sugar, 2 ozs. lard or dripping, ½ teacupful water, pinch of spice, 1 teaspoonful vinegar, 1 teaspoonful (level) bicarbonate soda.
Put the water, sugar, fat, raisins, spice and vinegar into a saucepan. Boil for 3 minutes. Cool. Stir in bicarbonate soda dissolved in warm water. Add flour and baking powder sifted together. Bake in a fairly slow oven, approximately 1½ hours. (Regulo 4 or 375°. Best size tin 6in.)

Racing Gossip

Golden Jack's Promise: Scarcity of 'Chasers

BY OUR RACING CORRESPONDENT.

THE racing season of 1941 is drawing to a close, only seven meetings being listed between now and the Christmas fixtures at Leopardstown and Limerick. It has been a remarkable season, in which difficulties of all kinds had to be surmounted in order to carry on. The greatest menace was foot-and-mouth disease, now happily wiped out, and, when one remembers the gloomy outlook which presented itself in the early part of the year, there is every reason for being satisfied with the way racing has been carried on. The biggest disappointments were the cancellation of our two great steeplechase meetings, which meant losses in prize money to owners amounting to over £6,000. Reference is made to Punchestown and Fairyhouse, which we regard as national events. At the moment there is no reason for thinking that these fixtures will not be brought off next year, and preparations to that end are being made for entries for the Maiden Plate at Punchestown closed last week and entries for a similar race at Fairyhouse are due on Wednesday, November 19th.

Hopeful Sign

Prediction about anything nowadays is unsafe, but should no further difficulties arise it is quite apparent that racing can be carried on even when coal and petrol are such scarce commodities. We had evidence of this in the remarkably successful meetings held of late.

I was glad to hear that Limerick Junction, one of the hardest hit fixtures as regards transport arrangements, actually showed a profit, and there was no loss over the holding of the Navan Meeting on the home course. To those not conversant with things it would seem Gilbertian that, while a Navan Meeting had to be held at Leopardstown, the next Mullingar Meeting, on December 6th, will be held at Navan. It is easy to explain, however, as while the Navan Executive were glad to bring off their fixture at a course so much nearer Dublin, Mullingar could not secure one of the Dublin courses, which had already been heavily taxed by extra meetings. By transferring to Navan, train facilities are assured, and intending visitors need not have any fears that there will be the same delay about the return journey as last time.

Golden Jack

I have before mentioned how small the fields for steeplechases have been of late, and have been wondering at the cause. It may be due to the fact that here in Ireland we have steeplechasing all the year round, whereas in England it is confined to certain months, and it has been suggested that there should be a close season for 'chasing of two or three months. The one disappointing race at Leopardstown last Saturday was the three miles steeplechase. Only two runners appeared, and such a certainty did it look that Golden Jack would beat Carlingford that there was no betting. There were plenty of other good horses entered to provide a fine race had they been saddled. Probably Golden Jack would have been the winner in any circumstances, as this son of Goldcourt, just now reaching his prime as a steeplechaser, is undoubtedly a top-notcher. His trainer, Mr. C. A. Rogers, in fact regards him as one of the best jumpers he ever has had under his charge, and would not be surprised if he were yet to emulate the achievements of Miss D. Paget's other great horse, Golden Miller. Golden Jack's record to date bears inspection; for he either has won or been placed in all his races, and no fences have any terrors for him. He has a fine, free style of galloping, takes his fences in stride, and really requires very little riding. At the moment the point is not quite clear as to whether he is eligible to enter for a Liverpool Grand National, even though he won one of the qualifying races in this country.

Closing of Entries

Owners and trainers are reminded that entries close to-morrow with Mr. F. Harold Clarke, 9 Hume street, Dublin, for six races at Navan November Meeting, and for six races at Powerstown Park December Meeting. Entries for twelve two years old races to be run at Phœnix Park during 1942 also close to-morrow, as well as four races at the Naas March and April Meetings.

Changing Fortunes in the League

BY P. D. McWEENEY.

NEXT Saturday's programme will conclude the first half of most of the Leinster League competitions, and, as far as the senior A division is concerned, it becomes harder and harder each week to pick out the likely winner. The results are certainly very strange, Portrane lending the touch of complete uncertainty to the games each week. As they defeated Three Rock Rovers ten days ago against all the odds, I certainly felt that they had a chance of a one-nil win over Corinthians, whose forwards are so very weak; but once again Portrane did the entirely unexpected. Against a defence which had not conceded more than one goal in a match, against the opposition of Rovers, Pembroke Wanderers, Trinity and Railway, Portrane got three and brought themselves to within striking distance of the leaders.

Every week has brought its important matches, for six of the teams are obviously dead level in ability, and next Saturday opens up possibilities of further changes at the top. Pembroke Wanderers and Y.M.C.A. are joint leaders with nine points each; one point behind are Three Rock Rovers, who meet Wanderers at Serpentine avenue. Rovers have fallen away sadly since their particularly brilliant start, but they may come to life again at any moment, and, if they do, they are capable of beating any side.

The improvement in the Wanderers' team, who seemed likely to be weak when the season started, is quite remarkable. McNulty is becoming a dominating figure at full-back, and has almost the ideal partner in the experienced S. J. Doyle; the halves do their job of marking the opposing forwards, and a most definite improvement in the play of the brothers V. and H. Raby, with the useful addition of D. Sheridan, has made the front line into one which cannot be allowed much rope. I doubt if the team can rise to any great heights, but they see miss likely than any of the others to variations in form.

I was impressed by Y.M.C.A.'s work against Trinity on Saturday. Every man is on his toes from start to finish, and the unusual scheme of W. Fry dropping back far more than is customary with an inside forward, allowing Sanderson to back up closely in attack, is quite effective, for the centre-half is as likely to get goals as any of the forwards. I think they will beat Corinthians on Saturday, and on their present showing they will be difficult to dislodge from the top of the table.

In contrast to past years, nothing is going right for Railway Union; their defence cannot settle down, and it is strange to find them conceding more goals than any of the other seven clubs. Monkstown have not had any great breaks either, for they have lost five of their six matches by a margin of a single goal.

Golf

The Sherlock Cup at the Castle

The Cup presented to the Leinster Alliance by Dr. Lorcan Sherlock was played for at the Castle on Sunday under the worst possible conditions. So unfavourable were they, in fact, that only a small proportion of the competitors were able to finish, and, of course, the scoring was exceptionally high. Two representatives of Royal Dublin shared the honours, the Cup going to P. J. Owens with a nett 79 (off 8), and P. J. Mahon, the professional at Dollymount, taking the prize for the best gross with 80, or one better than the score of Kevin O'Connor (Elm Park), who was runner-up for the trophy. The next competition will be for the Irish Times Shield at Clontarf on November 30th.

STOCK MARKET REPORTS

SHARP RISE IN IRISH RAILS

There was a large accumulation of orders on the Dublin Stock Exchange yesterday, and markets made a brisk start to the week.

Local securities continued to the fore, and British Industrials advised generally better.

Chief interest was centred in Home Rails, where strong buying put prices still higher. Great Southern Pref. gained 30/- at 15; the Guaranteed spurted two points to 42, and the Deb. made headway to 58¼. Great Northern Ord. inclined higher, and the Pref. were raised 12/6 to 30¼. Dublin Transport Ord. on fresh support firmed up to 16/6.

Burke Deb. advanced 1/- to 80/-, and Carroll Ord., although closing below the best, were still pence higher on the day. Hayes Conyngham Deb. gained 1/7½ at 95/-, but May Roberts (Ireland) Ord. fell 2/- at 35/-.

COMPANY NEWS

Cairnes.—Gross profit to 31st August £173,226 (£136,595). Deduct duties £81,424 (£61,451), expenses, tax, renewals, contingencies, etc., £78,189 (£63,080), management expenses £2,282 (£2,256); net working profit £11,332 (£11,807). To debenture interest £2,649 (£2,256). Pref. dividend for the year, less tax, £3,532 (£3,802). Ordinary dividend 5 p.c. (against 4 p.c.), £2,776 (£2,391). Forward £9,731 (£9,358). Meeting, Dublin, 13th November, noon.

City of Waterford Gas Co.—Report for year ended 30th June, 1941, states that the profit amounted to £2,365. Add surplus from coal account £1,410 and £8,719 brought forward, and deduct dividend for year ended 30th June, 1940, £1,008; Debenture interest £780, bank and deposit interest £278, and income tax £235, and there remains a balance of £10,194 to be carried forward. The directors consider it inadvisable to recommend a dividend this year, owing to the considerable demands on the cash resources and to the unsettled outlook. (Profit for previous year was £4,166, and a dividend of 3 per cent. was paid.)

Dock Milling Co.—3½ per cent. free of tax on Ordinary shares, making 6 per cent. for year (same); £800 to staff fund, bad debts, etc.; £357 forward.

Dublin and Wicklow Manure.—Net profits to 30th June, including surplus on sale of an investment, and after writing off additions to plant and making full provision for tax, £2,996 (net profit £2,572). To Pref. dividend £1,500, Ordinary dividend 3 p.c., £1,080 (same). Forward £834 (£418).

York Street Flax Spinning—Trading profit for the year to 30th June was £280,000 (against £151,659), and net profit £29,000 (£37,719). Final Ord. dividend of 3½ p.c., making 6 p.c. (against 5 p.c.). The carry-forward is £41,000, compared with £32,854.

Anglo-Java Rubber.—Profits reached an all time record of £303,867 (against £184,210). Taxation takes £160,000 (against £57,500). Dividend 4 p.c. (same).

Glynns Lydenburg. — Total profit £100,162 (against £92,109). Total dividends 20 p.c. (against 17½ p.c.). Forward £65,699 (against £53,628).

Eastern Sumatra Rubber. — Profit £74,610 (against £63,172). Dividend 10 5/12 p.c. (against 8 1/3 p.c.).

LONDON MONEY MARKET

Credit was in very comfortable supply. There was a fair amount of inquiry from market borrowers, but no difficulty was experienced in meeting requirements at the usual rate of 1 per cent. A small quantity of ½ per cent. money was also available.

ROWING
DUBLIN UNIVERSITY BOAT CLUB

The season is now in full swing; every afternoon the tub pairs are in great demand, and the senior members of the club are kept busy coaching the large numbers of new recruits who have found that Island Bridge is not quite such an unpleasant and out-of-the-way place as they had thought it was. Many of these new recruits show great promise, and there should be keen competition for places in the eights next term.

The fours for the Ussher Cup races at the end of term will be picked during the next week from the new and junior members of the club. The captain hopes to be able to pick eight fours, and to place each in charge of a senior member or of an old member of the club.

Two eights have been going out regularly three times a week. Owing to frequent changes, "B" crew has not yet settled down properly; they are still rather ragged, and consequently find some difficulty in controlling the boat. Individually, however, they are promising, and a few long outings should get them together as a crew.

"A" crew are full of good-will, and do a lot of work; but at present they are stiff and clumsy, and are inclined to rush forward. If a crew is to be fast, they must have ease and control in the swing forward, so that the boat gets a chance to run between the strokes. However, the crew has improved considerably during the last two weeks under the coaching of Mr. F. G. Cooke; and it is too early yet to become either pessimistic or optimistic about the prospects for next term and for the summer.

"A" crew has been going out in the following order:—(Bow) H. R. Hanna, J. P. R. Rees (2), R. O. R. Wood (3), R. L. McClelland (4), J. A. K. O. Wilson (5), R. Henderson (6), C. W. I. Arnold (7), (str.) A. B. Walsh, (cox.) J. Gorman.

ANNATOM INJURED

Annatom injured a shoulder badly when brought down in his first race over hurdles at Nottingham on Saturday. It was feared that he would have to be destroyed, but he has returned to Renton's establishment at Ripon for further veterinary examination.

FINIS FOR NEW ZEALAND

Negotiations for the sale of Sir Hugo Cunliffe-Owen's well-known stayer, Finis, have been completed. He has been purchased by the B.B.A., and is to be exported to New Zealand. During his racing career Finis won £6,228 in stake money.

HUNTING

NORTH KILDARE HARRIERS.—Change of Meet—Friday, November 14—Killarkin Gate, 11.30, instead of Dunboyne. Collection for Earl Haig's fund.

FOREIGN RAILS STILL SOARING

The boom in South American securities lost none of its pace when trading was resumed on the London Stock Markets yesterday, and, in response to big speculative demand, prices for Argentine Rail issues soared afresh in a lively and crowded market.

Outstanding feature was demand for Central Uruguay Stocks. The Ordinary rose to 8½, and the Second Debentures to 32½—the highest level since 1938. The attraction is that there is no interest arrears, and on current traffic returns the Second Debenture service is being earned, thus bringing the Ordinary near the dividend stage again.

Other issues with a South American flavour moved in closed order. Among Commercial issues Brazilian Tractions moved up to 12½, after 12½, whilst Forestal Lands gained another 7½d. to 26s. 7½d.

Other sections of markets were by no means uninteresting, and, indeed, Industrials provided a number of interesting developments, chief among them being another sharp advance in British Celanese issues to highest points of the year in anticipation of the annual report. Buyers also gave considerable fresh attention to Diamond shares on dividend hopes. Gilt-edged formed one of the quieter groups, and transactions were too limited to produce anything but minor alterations in quotations.

British Rails encountered support on a moderate scale, and with dividend prospects becoming more of a factor most of the junior issues were able to reach enhanced levels

Renewed buying of Diamond shares was the most colourful feature in a generally bright Mining Market, but Kaffirs also were in good form, with demand well spread over dividend-payers and non-producers. The latter encountered some profit-taking in the final stages, but, even so, prices were higher on balance.

Turnover in Oils was small, and the Eagle issues were somewhat dull. The recognised leaders held up well.

WALL STREET DULL

NEW YORK, Monday.

Dealings on the Stock Exchange were very selective, and early scattered attempts at a rally petered out. Buying interest subsequently was virtually non-existent, in face of the labour situation and the lack of complete information on the forthcoming taxes, coupled with fresh concern occasioned by Mr. Churchill's reference to the Japanese question.

With traders disposed to hold off over Tuesday, the list consequently sagged, with a preponderance of negligible fractional declines. J. I. Case was up a point on the declaration of a $7.00 dividend.

The close was heavy.

HOLIDAY TO-DAY

To-day, being Remembrance Day, all United States, Canadian and Buenos Aires markets will be closed.

DUBLIN BANKS' CLEARING

Week ended November 8th, 1941, £7,028,900, increase of £922,400 on same period last year. Total 45 weeks to date, £268,987,300 (decrease £2,792,900).

BRADFORD.—Most spinners and manufacturers have as much business as they can cope with during the next month or two. This has modified the keenness of competition, and there is general insistence on full quoted rates on new order for yarns. The recent advance in botany yarns is well established and cross-bred sorts are hardening.

CASHEL SHEEP SALE

Messrs. N. Maher and Sons, auctioneers, held their annual sheep sale in Cashel, Co. Tipperary, yesterday, the number penned being 1,284. There was very keen demand for forward lambs, the majority being purchased by shippers and victuallers. Tops made from 54/- to 60/-, secondaries 46/- to 53/-. Several useful lots of lambs made from 46/- to 55/-. The highest price for Lincoln lambs was 58/-. Hogget ewes made up to £3 12/6, wethers ranged from £3 5/- to £3 16/6, and prime ewes from £2 to 55/-.

DEBATE ON SECONDARY EDUCATION

At the inaugural meeting of the recently formed Christian Brothers, Synge street, Past Pupils' Debating Society, held last night in the schools, Synge street, the motion, "That secondary education militates against the earning of an honest living," was defeated

Mr. D. Connolly held that secondary education, if it were to fit a person to earn a living at all, must take cognisance of the fact that all the boys it turned out could not enter the Civil Service, the teaching profession, or any of the other professions. Secondary education, he contended, was not sufficiently vocationalised.

Mr. B. O'Reilly pointed out that there was a high standard of secondary education in every State in the world. Removing secondary education was removing the intellectual basis for many things

Several of the speakers held that secondary and technical education should go together.

Mr. Charles Kelly presided.

The following have been elected officials of the new society:—President, Mr. C. Kelly; secretary, Mr. R. F. Christopher; auditor, Mr. S. D. Connolly. Committee—Messrs. J. P. O'Donovan, B. O'Reilly, E. Andrews, G. Redmond and P. Browner.

THE DOMVILE PAPERS

Lecturing on "The Domvile Papers" to the Old Dublin Society last night, Mr. Kevin Murray, Editor of "The Dublin Historical Record," said that the Domviles had been associated with Dublin since the seventeenth century, when Gilbert Domvile came to Ireland, and prospered in his enterprises. He was M.P. for Kildare, and is buried in St. Patrick's Cathedral.

Mr. Murray stressed the importance of the collection, so copiously illustrative of the topography of Dublin City and County, and its value as a source of historical knowledge.

Had No Permit.—Martin Crosbie, who gave his address as Parliament street, Dublin, was fined £5 in Belfast yesterday for having entered Northern Ireland without a permit.

COMPANY MEETING.

IRISH WIRE PRODUCTS
THE BURDEN OF TAXATION

The fifth annual general meeting of Irish Wire Products, Ltd., was held at the offices, Dock road, Limerick, yesterday. Mr. J. Plunkett Dillon, the chairman of the company, presided, and in his speech to the shareholders reviewed the accounts for the year ended the 31st May, which showed a nett profit for the year of £8,756 and, including the carry forward from the previous year, less dividends paid, a balance available of £10,861.

The chairman referred at length to the effect of recent taxation upon new industrial undertakings in this country, remarking: "Unfortunately, it is not a question nowadays in regard to any business of what profit you could make in it, but rather how much in taxes have you to pay out of it." I would draw your particular attention to the new tax known as excess corporation profits tax. The estimate of what this will cost us for the year under review only covers a period of five months, that is from the 1st January to the 31st May last. When our accounts were closed the estimated amount of this additional tax in respect of that period is £2,434, or, in round figures, were it for a whole year, it would be £5,800 (which would reduce our nett profits from £8,726 to £5,360), more than 40 per cent. of the profit before providing for taxation, and this is in respect of tax under one head alone.

LETTER OF PROTEST

The Chairman then read a letter of protest which he had addressed to the Secretary of the Department of Finance in respect of this year's Budget, and the reply, which promised that the representations made on the subject would be examined prior to the introduction of the next Budget. He continued:—There can be no doubt as to the representations that have been made, and we must hope, and, I say it advisedly, trust, that the consideration promised by the Minister will bear ample fruit. No half or partial relief will cure the desperate situation in which new industries have been placed. It can, I am satisfied, be said broadly, but with absolute fairness, that young industries such as ours have been harshly—indeed, cruelly—treated by the legislation and regulations imposed upon us by our Government during the year under review. It may appear reasonable to some people that a company should not pay in dividends during the present crisis more than they were able to pay in times that were more stable. But, while many arguments can be advanced in favour of such a general principle, it is utterly unreasonable and unfair to apply such ideas to new industries which were only getting on their feet when the present world crisis came upon us, and if these industries can survive the present difficulties it means that in the few years of their existence their foundations have been well laid. Further, if we can make reasonable profits in these times of difficulties, and, notwithstanding the supervision of the prices branch of the Department of Supplies, we certainly, in all fairness, should be allowed to give our shareholders some substantial return upon the money they invested in new enterprise, and as to which, in the initial years, they could get no dividend whatsoever.

RESERVE INCREASED

Proceeding, the Chairman pointed out that, in addition to £4,730, the estimated taxation the company would have to bear in the financial year under review, it was proposed by the directors that the shareholders should approve an allocation of £6,000 as an addition to their reserve for contingencies. He explained that this large allocation arose solely through the anticipation of the directors as to what their tax liabilities in the present year would amount to in respect of the profits of last year, and that thus, accordingly, in the accounts before the shareholders a sum of £10,730 in one form or another was being taken into account in respect of taxation, and that this figure was, approximately, one-seventh of the entire subscribed capital of the company, while the Ordinary shareholders could only get a gross dividend of £2,400 a year.

He added that, with the final dividend of 2 per cent., it was proposed that the general meeting should authorise so as to make 6 per cent. for the year on the Ordinary shares. The Ordinary shareholders would only have received 11 per cent. in all in respect of the share issue made six years ago, when the company was formed—that is, less than 2 per cent. per annum, while no proper provision could be made for the future in the way of reserve funds, or adequate reduction of the balances outstanding in respect of deferred revenue and preliminary expenses.

CRIPPLING EFFECT

After referring to plans for extension of the factory, which the directors had previously in mind, the Chairman concluded: "But what is the use of plans for the future if all our strivings merely result in so much more to pay in taxation and no more in dividends. I say, without hesitation, that the taxation and regulations imposed upon companies such as ours in the past twelve months will have an absolutely crippling effect on the industrial development of this country for very many years to come unless great and sweeping relief be given to young industries in the very near future, and this company has the right to voice these views to an Irish Government, because we are entirely Irish. Our very excellent works manager and his two sons are the only people associated with the company that are not Irish in every sense of the word, and the average shareholding in the company is £150 per shareholder. Therefore, it is the small Irish investor that is being victimised by the taxation that threatens our existence.

The Chairman's speech was fully discussed and approved by the shareholders. Mr. Roche suggested that the maximum publicity should be given to the statement on taxation, pointing out that the directors had, in their prudence, withheld dividends from the shareholders for some years, and now, it appears, because of that prudence, the shareholders may not get proper treatment when it is overdue to them in dividends.

This view was supported by all the shareholders present.

As proposed by the Chairman and seconded by Mr. P. F. Quinlan, the directors' report and accounts were adopted, including the payment of a final dividend of 2 per cent. (making 6 per cent. for the year) on the Ord. share capital of the company; dividend warrants to be issued on 10th December; £500 was written off preliminary expenses, and £500 off deferred revenue, £600 was added to the reserve for contingencies, leaving a balance to be carried forward of £2,630. Mr. P. F. Quinlan, the retiring director, was re-elected, as were the auditors, Messrs. Kennedy, Crowley and Co.

Mr. Blood-Smyth proposed a special vote of thanks to the directors, Mr. Hall, works manager; Mr. O'Reardon, secretary of the company, and the staff and employés generally, which was passed unanimously.

U.S. NEUTRALITY REVISION
DEBATE LIMITED TO EIGHT HOURS

WASHINGTON, Monday.—The Rules Committee of the House of Representatives has cleared the way for final action on the revision of the Neutrality Act by unanimous agreement to limit the debate to eight hours.

Mr. Cox, a Democratic member of the Committee, asserted that while he believed the United States to be already at war "the country is in no mental attitude to go to war, and we are being led to the slaughterhouse." He demanded that the Administration should first solve the labour problems.

The purpose of the revision is to permit the Government to arm merchantmen and send them into combat zones.

"UNDECLARED WAR"

"Our Navy is carrying on an undeclared war in the Atlantic," Senator Wheeler told the Senate. He quoted a letter from a seaman serving in the Reuben James, the U.S. destroyer torpedoed by a U-boat ten days ago, saying that the destroyer sank two submarines before she went down.

The United States should ignore as untrustworthy Herr Hitler's promise that German warships will not shoot first at American ships, said Senator Chandler. "He is just trying to lull us to sleep, so he can hit us while we are sleeping," he said. "We cannot trust Hitler's statements" was Senator Ellender's comment, and Senator Stewart said: "I construe Hitler's speech to mean he will shoot first at our ships. He has not kept any other promise he has made."

Senator Wheeler said: "Hitler is apparently seeking to put this country in the position of the aggressor in any shooting in the Atlantic."—(Reuter.)

ANOTHER STRIKE

SAN DIEGO (CALIFORNIA), Monday—Nearly 3,500 American Federation of Labour Building Trades Council members struck to-day on ten naval and marine defence construction projects involving an outlay of £8,750,000. The strike took place despite a warning by the Navy that it would import outside labour to continue work The strikers are demanding an increase in wages of a dollar a day.—(Associated Press.)

Later the U.S. Navy Department instructed Rear-Admiral Blakely "to take the necessary steps to carry work forward" on naval defence construction projects tied up by the strike.—(Reuter.)

REMEMBRANCE DAY
APPEAL FOR SUPPORT FOR POPPY FUND

On the eve of to-day's Remembrance Day ceremonies in Dublin Major J. J. Tynan, D.S.O., organising secretary of the British Legion (Irish Free State Area), made an earnest appeal to the public for greater generosity. "It is hoped," he said, "that the subscribers to the Poppy Day Fund will create a new record by the generosity of the support they extend to those who served and who sacrificed, and who by reason of this service and sacrifice are in need of their aid."

For the past twenty-four years, Major Tynan stated, the British Legion has been the bulwark and the one never-failing hope of the distressed and destitute ex-Servicemen and their families, and with the years the extent and scope of its benevolences have been growing and extending. Through the medium of the Poppy Day Fund the British Legion in the 26 counties has been enabled in the past to give aid and help very largely in excess of the actual amount subscribed locally to the distressed ex-Service men of the country and their dependents. The amount disbursed through the various British Legion Benevolent Committees was £28,441.

To-day's Remembrance Ceremony will be held at the Irish National War Memorial, Island Bridge, and the general public are asked to follow the following instructions:—

Members of the British Legion and other ex-Service men will assemble individually in Islandbridge Park. Medals and decorations to be worn. Mr. A. P. Connolly, chairman, British Legion, Ireland (Southern) Area, will be in charge of the formation of the parade.

The parade will fall in at 10.20 a.m. and move into the Memorial Park at 10.30 a.m.

The ceremony will commence by:
Band playing a funeral march.
10.59 a.m., "Last Post."
11 a.m., Two Minutes' Silence.
11.2 a.m., "Réveillé."

During the lament wreaths will be laid.

At the conclusion of the ceremony head-dress will be removed and contingents will march past the Cross of Remembrance, moving out of the Memorial Park as directed by stewards, and disperse individually.

Under no circumstances will children, whether accompanied by parents or otherwise, be admitted to any part of the Memorial Park.

A wreath will be placed on the Memorial Cross at the Royal Hibernian School by Sir William Hickie, K.C.B., after the ceremony in the Memorial Park.

CHURCH IS NOT THE CLERGY

"There is a general mistake that the Church is the clergy," said Professor W. B. Stanford, F.T.C.D., Regius Professor of Greek in the University of Dublin, in the course of a lecture on "The Church of Ireland: Its Present and its Future," in St. George's Parochial Hall, Temple street, Dublin, last night. "The Church," he continued, "is every member of the Church, and all have responsibilities." The Church of Ireland had certain handicaps, as having once been a State Church, connected with persecution, and connected with rates and taxes in the sense of tithes. That naturally turned many people against it. For certain reasons it had not been successful as a missionary body in the early stage after the Reformation.

They must be content with quality rather than quantity for a while, and their first duties would be education and citizenship, and strong loyalty to their Church.

He was optimistic about the future.

The Rev. B. Harvey presided, in the absence of Canon Campbell.

IRISH FISHERY INDUSTRY

Owing to its geographical position, Ireland should be one of the greatest fish producing and fish exporting countries, said Professor J. C. Sperrin-Johnson, M.A., M.Sc., M.B., Litt.D., F.R.G.S., speaking last night on "Oceanography in Relation to Irish Fisheries" in his presidential address to the University College (Cork) Biological Society. He said that a little expenditure on research as to local oceanographical factors should yield a rich return.

FINAL WEEK OF "LOVERS' MEETING"

"Lovers' Meeting" enters on its fourth and final week at the Abbey Theatre. This play, which has the "made match" for its theme, has a good deal of comedy to relieve the tragedy of the story.

THEATRE ROYAL
"APPLESAUCE NO. 5"

Continuing its new and much appreciated tradition of the embarrassing question, which wins the souvenir, the Theatre Royal's "Gift Corner," in the fifth edition of "Applesauce," last night asked for a blonde lady with a navy-blue parting in her hair, and a gentleman who could take cross-grips on right ear and left ankle while removing a straw from a glass on the stage. Compered by Mike Nolan and Peggy Dell, this feature was a great favourite with the audience.

In Mike's "War Communiqué," broadcast from Radio Donnycarney, we heard how an enemy bomber over Clondalkin chased a schoolboy on a bicycle and cut one of his spokes in half. Peggy Dell's "Singers' Corner" brought the audience together in "Little Sir Echo" and a number of other popular numbers.

In J. Eric Henry's "What Do You Know?" test there were four competitors. The winner was a competitor of old standing, Mr. Byrne, a student, who qualified for next Saturday's final. Joe Duffy and Dan Byrne, Dublin's own comedians, put over an amusing act, and "Musical Mirror," with a gipsy flavour, featured Frank Ryan, Evelyn Fitzpatrick, Peggy Dell, the Quartette, Jimmy Campbell and the band, the Royal Violettes and Alban Chambers, beginning his final week at the organ in "Applesauce."

"DUBLIN LIGHTS" AT THE QUEEN'S

"Dublin Lights" continues to draw big crowds to the Queen's Theatre. Plenty of fun is provided by Noel Purcell, assisted by Bill Brady and Jimmy Harvey. Noel Purcell and Miss Eire O'Reilly figure in another scene, in which they introduce two very old popular Dublin songs, "Cockles and Mussels" and "If I were a Blackbird." Miss O'Reilly, Mr. W. J. Hobbs, the well-known tenor, and Mr. Desmond Hanly, baritone, gave excerpts from "The Bohemian Girl." Alex Fryer and the Queen's Orchestra, with the Queen's Moonbeams, helped to round off a most enjoyable show.

Fynnon Salt

reduces swollen joints

Here is a letter from a man who, despite ten years suffering, found he could wash away tenacious rheumatic acids with Fynnon Salt.

"I have suffered for nearly ten years and have had all kinds of treatment but only got temporary relief. Then I was advised to try Fynnon Salt. So I started a regular morning dose. The swelling in my knees went down and the hard lumps on my hands disappeared. Today I am practically free from rheumatism. I am 64 years of age." W.T.R.

DUBLIN GRAND OPERA SOCIETY

The Dublin Grand Opera Society opened their second week at the Gaiety Theatre, Dublin, last night. "Cavalleria Rusticana" and "Pagliacci" were the works submitted, and in both cases the performance showed improvement on last week. In the Mascagni opera, Patricia Black was again outstanding in the rôle of Santuzza. James Johnston infused more vigour into his work as Turridu, and, as usual, sang delightfully. Sam Mooney, as Alfio, was also capital. Others in the cast were Kitty Vaughan (Mother Lucia) and Kay Lynch (Lola). Charles Lynch conducted.

Fine showmanship and robust singing by John Torney, in the rôle of Canio, were the high-lights in "Pagliacci." John Lynskey was little behind as the Clown Tonio. Renée Flynn made a dainty Nedda, her acting and singing being both in excellent taste. T. E. Attwool (Silvio) and W. Millar (Beppo) completed a good cast. Captain J. M. Doyle conducted.

To-night: "Rigoletto," at 7.30.

DUBLIN UNIVERSITY PLAYERS AT PEACOCK

Last night, at the Peacock Theatre, Dublin University Players produced James Bridie's play, "The Switchback," the presentation of which on any stage would always be a heavy task.

The last act is prolonged an unconscionable time with the ravings of a madman, while the audience wonder what it is all about and how it will end.

The finale comes through much loud thunder and lightning and a foolish laugh. This is where James Bridie is most original, but others have been before him on the main theme, and Mr. Bridie's effort is thin and pallid in comparison.

Those who had the production and management did their work commendably.

ATTRACTIVE SHOW AT OLYMPIA

This week at the Olympia Theatre "Irish S-Ports No. 5" provides audiences with plenty of entertainment. Johnny Caross is excellent in a dancing and balancing speciality. The Three Americans pleased with their selections on guitars. Memories of old-time musical halls were awakened by the singing of a number of old songs associated with G. H. Elliott, Josie Collins and other famous old stars. The chief fun-maker of the show is Cecil Sheridan. Tommy Byrne, boy-soprano has been retained for another week, and the Hughes Sisters, accordeonists, got a good reception from the crowd.

Niall Boden's feature "I Want to be an Actor" went down very well. For this feature Mr. Boden invites members of the audience to come on the stage and impersonate well-known actors, and the most successful receives a prize. The competition attracted a good many entrants.
